Prepayment Account

Helping you manage the cost of heating your home

How it Works...

Simply pay a monthly prepayment by standing order based on your annual consumption* and build up a credit on your account.

When you order oil, use the credit balance on your account to cover the cost of your oil delivery.

If you don't have enough in your credit account to cover the cost of your order it is then just a matter of paying the balance on delivery.

The standing order continues and starts building a credit on your account towards your next refill.

* We will calculate your annual consumption

Terms and Conditions

If there are not enough funds in your prepayment account to cover the delivery of heating oil, the outstanding balance must be paid on delivery.

Standing order prepayment accounts can only be used for supplies of heating oil. Farm diesel, derv, or lubricants cannot be charged to these accounts.

Maximum order limits may apply.

Oil is charged at the cash price when the account is in credit. Oil is charged at the credit price if there is not sufficient funds to cover the delivery. The outstanding balance must be paid on delivery and the early settlement discount is then applied.

Prepayment Accounts are reviewed annually and a request may be made by Lakeland Fuels to change the amount of the monthly payment.

After the annual review, standing order payments may need to be increased if the level of payment is not meeting the annual consumption on the account. The level of payment may need to be reduced if the level of payment is greatly exceeding the annual consumption.

Prepayment account facilities may be withdrawn by Lakeland Fuels if requests to increase monthly payments are not met or the account is not maintained in accordance with these terms.

Terms and Conditions are subject to change without written notification.
